Mr. McMillin is in the city. It is said he declined a European post.

McClellan Denies It.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Princeton, N. J., March 10 .- A rumor on the campus to-day to the effect that Prof. George B. McClellan, ex-Mayor of New York, had been offered the ambassadorship to Rome, and was considering acceptance, was put to Prof. McClellan to-night. His reply

I deny it absolutely. I am a candidate for nothing."
The report that he had been offered the position by President Wilson came from a source of some authority, and the possibility that the professor would resign from the university faculty to accept the ambassadorship was stirring up some discussion. The fact that Prof. McClellan is going to Italy to study crime conditions there lent some weight to the report.

No Place for Brandels. Louis D. Brandels, of Boston, who was frequently mentioned for a post in the Wilson Cabinet, had a long conwith the President at White House to-night. It was the first time they had met since the days preceding the election in November, when Wilson was campaigning in Masusetts. Mr. Brandels declined to discuss his visit. It was definitely learned to-night, however, that he will not be associated in any official connection with the administration, will be frequently consulted when the antitrust reform is undertaken. It is known that the President entertains a high regard for his views on the question of strengthening the Sher-man antitrust law, the regulation of ompetition and the curbing of monop-ly practices.

the King's speech at the opening of Parliament.

The debate on the address, however, brought an important statement from Premier Asquith. Lord Cecil had voiced the current rumors that the government was embarking on a dangerous foreign policy and had entered into an engagement in certain contingencies to throw a British expeditionary army across the Channel.

At this point the Premier suddenly jumped up and said:

"I ought at once to say that this is not true." This explicit denial was received with loud cheers

This Man Has the Right Idea

There's a little shop in a certain city which, some day, will be a big store. The proprietor has the right idea. He doesn't wait for business. He goes after it.

In a 3 x 5 card-index cabinet he keeps a list of his customera—actual and prospective. The cards show their names, addresses and what business they are in. He uses this list for circularizing and "follow-up" by mail. He doesn't wait until he has something "special." He hangs away all the time. And his prospects are becoming customers.

Wouldn't it pay YOU to adopt this man's idea—to go after business, not wait for it? The idea is not patented. It applies to every kind of business, from a corner grocesy to the largest mail-order house in America.
